Remember ...

If you become a member of the Northwest Feed Manufacturers Association, your company will be listed in — and get copies of — the Association’s exclusive business directory of the Upper Midwest feed industry.

Through your membership you support the Association’s important educational efforts — at the university level to educate future industry leaders and at local schools to balance the debate on livestock production.

Membership in the Northwest Feed Manufacturers Association will keep you abreast of industry changes and events through business dinner meetings and social events.

An invitation to join ...

NORTHWEST FEED MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION

Founded in 1937, the Northwest Feed Manufacturers Association is today comprised of more than 100 member companies, representing all technical and marketing phases of animal feeding.

Where membership dues go...

Yearly membership dues for the Association go to fund a number of important efforts, including:

- n An Association membership directory (listing names and addresses of all member companies and individuals; available only to members)
- n University scholarships -- more than $9,100 last year.
- n Animal education efforts, including Minnesota Ag in the Classroom, Minnesota Foundation for Responsible Animal Care.

The Northwest Feed Manufacturers Association supports you and the feed industry ...

The Association's activities:

- n Help members stay abreast of important topics.
- n Keep communication open between universities and industry.
- n Educate future agricultural leaders.
- n Develop educational dinner meetings with speakers on relevant events.
- n Host an annual golf outing and holiday party.
- n Maintain good fellowship and friendly social business relationships.
